Recalls Call for Consumer Alert

In cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission, three manufacturers are recalling their products.

Generation 2 Worldwide is recalling about 6,600 Next Generation Pisces Cribs. The slats on the headboards and footboards of these cribs can come loose, creating a large opening. Such an opening enables an infant to become entrapped in the side rails, which can result in serious injury or death. Generation 2 Worldwide has received 12 reports of loosened slats. No injuries have been reported.

Bell Sports Inc. is voluntarily recalling about 5,800 bicycle helmets used for BMX and downhill mountain biking and racing. A defect with the helmets' chin strap rivets can result in the helmet coming off the rider's head in the event of a fall or crash. If the helmet comes off, serious head injury could result. Bell Sports is aware of one incident. No injury was reported.

Walgreen Co. is recalling about 40,000 Kid's Sipper Bottles. The bottles' caps can be pulled off, creating a potential choking hazard. CPSC and Walgreen are not aware of any incidents, but are proceeding with preventative action.

Consumers should stop using all of the above products immediately. For details, product descriptions and further instructions go to the CPSC's Web site, www.cpsc.gov.

Eliminate Personal E-mails, Browsing

In light of current world events, it is imperative that the USAREUR common user data network runs expeditiously. To achieve this, a minimization order is immediately in effect.
